• Lions Club installation

Mrs. John Black and Richard McKenzie accepted gavels for their respective organizations at the joint installation dinner of the Carmel Valley Lions Club and the Carmel Valley Lionettes Saturday at the new Holiday Inn.

Other Lions' officers receiving the oath of office from Herb Cunningham, past district governor, were Lloyd Todd, first vice president; Tom Bordonaro, second vice president; and Charles Gansel, third vice president. John Darch will serve as new secretary, Herman Tedrow as treasurer, Leroy Dufur, lion tamer and Mal Tavares as tail twister. Directors are Henry Blatnik, Clyde Hitchcock, Maury Nessel, Norman Skadan, Robert Hebert and Jack Black.

Assisting Rae Black in the Lionettes will be Marie Tedrow, vice president; Dorothy Hebert, secretary; Frances Wright, treasurer; Mary Ocampo, tail twister; directors, Jane Korver, Nellie Mirani, Mary Skalyo and Ora Todd. The Lionettes were installed by International Counsellor Tony August.

Jay Manning of the Pacific Grove-New Monterey Club served as master of ceremonies. Music was provided by the Fort Ord trio headed by Danny Lowell.

Retiring presidents, Cmdr. (ret.) William Stowers and Mrs. Charles Gansel, were presented gifts of appreciation for their year of service to the two clubs.

Guests among the 95 present were, in addition to the Augusts and the Cunninghams, Dr. and Mrs. William Coughlin, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Parrott, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Davis, Mr. and Mrs. George Baker, Mrs. Benita Conlan, and Mrs. June Feeney.

Medallions signifying the golden anniversary of Lionism being observed this year throughout the world were presented with certificates of merit to Valley Lions for outstanding service. Receiving them were William "Bud" Hall, Lloyd Todd, Charles Gansel, Carl Maier, Clyde Hitchcock, Tom Bordonaro, Leroy Dufur, Norman Skadan and George Jennings. Sal Ocampo and Bob Hebert were honored for their outstanding work as first year Lions.

A special gift was presented to Mrs. Carl Maier by Mrs. Charles Gansel on behalf of the Lionettes who have appreciated her work as historian since the beginning of the club. The Maisers will be moving East in the near future. Others appearing on the program were Clyde Hitchcock and John Koon.

Chairman of the dinner was Norman Skadan whose shop was responsible for the beautiful arrangements of flowers and tapers in the club colors, gold and purple, decorating the tables. He was assisted by Col. (ret.) Carl Maier.

• Gem & Mineral Society

Members of the Carmel Valley Gem & Mineral Society will combine their monthly field trip with the California Federation of Mineral Society's convention and gem show, "Golden Pageant of Gems & Minerals," to be held July 13 through 16 at the California State Fairgrounds in Sacramento.

An annual event, the show features the artwork of members of gem clubs throughout California and exhibitors throughout the United States.

Emmett Spencer, of Pacific Grove, will represent the Carmel Valley club of which he is a member, with his exhibit of bird intarsias.

Special activities will include a micromount symposium, faceting seminar, rock swaps, carving demonstrations and many other programs. Several guided field trips into the Mother Lode Country will be an added attraction.

• Parent Nursery group

The final business meeting of the year for members of the Carmel Valley Parent Nursery School was held at the Berwick Drive home of Mrs. John Wolff with Mrs. Larry Gardner serving as her co-hostess. There are presently two openings for next semester. Anyone interested in enrolling a pre-schooler may phone Mrs. Don Johnson, 659-2431, before July 31 for details.

• Kiwanis

CV Kiwanis heard Kevin Walsh describe a cruise down the coast of Mexico in a talk Tuesday.

Pres. Roger Sherman of CV Little League the previous week urged Kiwanis to sponsor a team next year.

Herr named athletic director at Carmel Hi

Rudy T. Herr, a former University of Oregon football star, has been named athletic director at Carmel High School to succeed Bob Walthour in that position. Walthour will continue coaching duties at the high school, while Herr will coach only where there are unfilled assignments.

Herr comes to Carmel from Eugene, Ore., where he was director of physical education at Sheldon High School.

CVYO movie

On July 7 there will be a teenage movie program with Christopher Lee starring in "THE FACE OF FUMANCHU" in Technicolor!

On the same program the 1967 INDIANAPOLIS 500 RACE... in color... "THIRTY DAYS IN MAY."

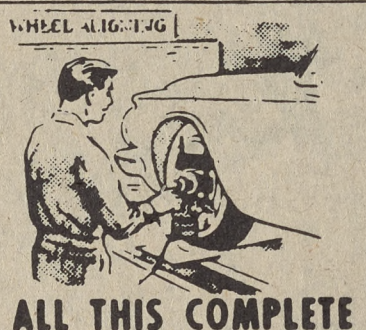

Showtime 8 p.m. Everyone welcome at the Community Center, Carmel Valley Youth Organization sponsored.

Lynn Wilmot, Herb Dean wed

Lynn Wilmot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pearson Wilmot of Panetta Road, was married Saturday, June 24, to Herb A. Dean Jr. Rev. Ned Holmgren presided at the afternoon ceremony at the First Baptist Church of Carmel Valley.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Dean of Oxnard.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Roberts on Schulte Road.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of Saki silk with a sabrina neckline. A train of three tiers edged in Alencon lace fell from the square, low-cut back. A high tiara of pearls and lace was worn with an illusion fingertip veil. Lynn carried a bouquet of white roses and carnations.

Maid of honor was Beth Augustitus of Carmel Valley and the bridesmaids were Jonna Merrick of San Jose, and the bride's two sisters, Mrs. Carol Newby and Mrs. Janice Roberts.

Best man was Lee Dempsey of San Jose and the ushers were Mike Miller of Fresno, Ted Roberts of Carmel Valley and Bob Newby of San Luis Obispo.

Lynn is a senior English major at Cal Poly in San Luis Obispo. Her husband was formerly an architecture student at Cal Poly. He is now serving with the U.S. Army.

'Room Service' adds light comedy to Circle repertoire

"Room Service" will open on July 11 at the Circle Theatre in Carmel, shifting the accent from drama to light comedy.

In this play Gordon Miller, a circumspect promoter, is settled in a hotel in Times Square as the unwelcome guest of the manager who happens to be his brother-in-law. With Miller in the hotel are 22 nonpaying actors.

The cast of fourteen includes Elroy Naczek, Peter Medina, Jim Goffard, Nick Hovick, Cal Schlesinger, Jay Criddle, Roberta Robertson, Roderick Sibley, Joan Schwartz, Lee Toplinger, Norman McPhee, William Lewis, Mark Taylor and Keith Graham.

"Room Service" is one of the four plays being presented in "Repertory '67" from July 11 to Sept. 3. This series represents a mingling of diversified productions. Under the direction of Norman McPhee, there will be six performances weekly (Tuesday through Sunday).

"The Subject Was Roses," which is currently playing on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday nights, will be included.

Peninsular Potters show local work

The Peninsula Potters, a workshop for handcrafted pottery, weaving and sculpture, opened last weekend at 221 Hoffman Ave., Monterey, with the work of several Valley craftsmen represented.

Mrs. Florence (Joni) Clayton of Carmel Valley Manor has weaving in the opening exhibit and sale and Anna Burgess of the Origins shop is showing handwoven pillows and ponchos.

Alice Sousa who is an assistant at Marzi Pottery is also a member of the newly formed organization which is under the direction of Gerald Allen.

The work of noted potter Loet Vanderveen is featured in the opening show.

maker. They are standing in front of Whitney's on Ocean Ave. Will the rest of the confett-draped revelers please step forward and be recognized?

OUTLOOK ON CARMEL

Commissioner Pat Faul is for more use of Forest Theatre

Although Pat Faul has only lived in Carmel for three years, her presence on the Cultural Commission represents many years of interest in civic and cultural affairs.

She and her husband, Dr. George Faul, moved here from Richmond, Calif. when he was made president of Monterey Peninsula College. Prior to that he had been president of Contra Costa College and they had lived in that one city for 18 years.

It was quite a change to move to quiet Carmel, but it didn't take charming, vivacious Pat long to become an active member of the community.

While the Fails were living in Richmond, Pat was a member of the first Human Relations Commission formed in that city. She also was on the Citizen's Advisory Committee to the County Welfare Dept. and on the national board of the Camp Fire Girls.

In Carmel she was a member of the Carmel Arts Commission and when it was merged with Sunset Commission, she and artist Donald Teague were the two Arts Commission members who carried over to the newly formed group, named by Mayor Steve Grant.

She feels that since Cole Weston has taken over the operation of Sunset Center, many exciting things are happening, but she is even more interested in the development of the Forest Theatre. Pat's philosophy on the outdoor theatre, and the Theatre in the Ground underneath, is with the old-timers of Carmel who would like to see its uses expanded rather than think of turning the property into a park or parking lot as some have suggested.

"All over the United States outdoor theatres are flourishing in weather worse than ours," Pat commented. "Given time, and reoriented, the Forest Theatre is bound to come alive."

With reference to repertory theatre in Carmel, Pat Faul does not think the city should be in the entertainment business and sponsor a company... rather she would like to see the excellent local groups encouraged to make use of Sunset. Recently at a commission meeting the idea of a cultural radio station for Carmel was proposed which Pat thinks would be a worthwhile venture and certainly fill a need, as long as it didn't interfere with the business of local commercial stations.

In addition to civic activities, Pat is also a mother and a teacher. The Fails have two children, Bob, a student at Carmel High School and Alison, who is in Middle School.

Pat teaches at Forest Grove School in Pacific Grove. She has been instructing a combined third and fourth grade, but next year will have a special assignment.

Funded under a Federal grant, she will be one of four teachers working with 90 first graders, working on the theory of building a self-image in the children at an early age. If children are happy with themselves in their position, then they will learn more rapidly and effectively.

Pat's eyes sparkled as she talked of the challenge of next year's work and it was evident that any job she tackled would receive the same kind of dedication.

All Saints' needs books for fair

In preparation for a Book Fair at All Saints' Church in Carmel, the public is invited to leave used books, sheet music, records, art and travel magazines, pictures, frames, prints, bookcases, or bookends at the parish office, Lincoln and 9th.

The sale will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on July 12 with refreshments from a snack bar available from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Shinbrot stars in 'Funny Thing' on Studio stage

Three actors from the local original cast of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" will be on hand when the hit musical re-opens at the Studio Theatre-Restaurant this Friday evening.

Ed Shinbrot, who played Lycus in last winter's production, now has the lead role Zero Mostel made famous on Broadway. Milton Hayes will repeat his role of Hysterium whose impersonations of the supposedly expired heroine is a highlight of the comedy. Monterey High honor graduate Dianna Lockwood, again portrays the statuesque beauty, Gymnasia.

Allan Weinfield, a newcomer to the Studio who is a retired lieutenant colonel from Boston and has had stage experience in this country and abroad, plays Senex and Diane Felty portrays his dictatorial wife, Domina.

Paul Feiten steps into Shinbrot's old role as the licentious Lycus. Lex North, who has the male lead in "Little Mary Sunshine" which alternates weekly with "A Funny Thing" this summer, plays the conquering hero, Miles Gloriousus.

Luan Brown and Bill Scott are the young lovers and dancing girls are Candy Knapp, Bernice Marie Kovalick and Toni Hyland.

Playing a variety of bit parts as "proteans" are Geoff Cocks, David Conneau and Rick Wolf.

There'll be a lot of fun on the way to the forum with these characters under the skillful direction of Michael Keller.

FAA OKs airstrip at Dormody's San Clemente Rancho

The Federal Aviation Agency has issued a permit to Mike Dormody for a private airstrip on the San Clemente Rancho. Dormody had obtained a use permit for the field earlier from the Planning Commission.

The field will accommodate members of the San Clemente Rancho and their invited guests, but will not be open to the public except in case of emergency. Named after a pioneer settler, El Ponciano Airfield is currently constructed of decomposed granite, but will probably be paved in another year or so, Dormody said.

All members who expect to make use of the airstrip will be required to check out their flying and credentials with Ray Phillips, who will be operator of the field, according to Dormody. Phillips is an industrial arts teacher at the Walter Colton Junior High School and has 20 years experience in flying.

San Clemente Rancho is a private membership, residence colony off Robinson Canyon Road, near White Rock.

N.Y. Pro Musica members to join Bach Festival performers

Four artists from the famed New York Pro Musica will add a special lustre to the Carmel Bach Festival this season. Trained and experienced in the performance of Medieval, Renaissance and baroque music through their association with Pro Musica, these distinguished artists make their first appearance this year with the Carmel Bach Festival.

Pro Musica performers in this year's Bach Festival are: LaNoue Davenport, baroque instrumentalist who plays a variety of instruments including recorders, krummhorns, cornett, sackbutt and viola de gamba; Sheila Schonbrun, soprano, who in private life is Mrs. Davenport, and who has received high acclaim for her solo and ensemble work with the group; Judith Davidoff who plays the viola de gamba and has made extensive appearances in the United States, Europe, Canada, and the Middle East; and Shelly Gruskin, flutist.

Mr. Davenport and Mr. Gruskin appear in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 4 by J.S. Bach in the concert on Monday evening, July 24, in Sunset Auditorium.

1st-nighter party

First-nighters are invited to a party after the Saturday, July 8, performance of "110 in the Shade" opening that night at the White Oaks Theatre. The party will feature a buffet provided by the members of the White Oaks Theatre Guild, libations and dancing to the music of the Janusz brothers and an opportunity to meet the cast. Mrs. Thomas Dawson and Mrs. Richard Thornburg are co-chairmen in charge.

Young People's Art Show at Fairgrounds

The Young People's Art Show which will be on exhibit at the Arabian Horse Show, Friday through Sunday at the Fairgrounds, will be hung and judged on Friday.

Over 75 paintings and drawings have been entered, and according to preview reports, many are exceptional.

Watts exhibit at MPMA

The Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art Association is exhibiting paintings in water color and oil by the late William C. Watts (1867-1961) during July.

Paintings in the exhibition are being lent to the Museum on Lincoln in Carmel, by various collectors and friends of the artist.

Mr. Watts, a long-time resident of the Peninsula and early member of the Carmel Art Association, traveled all over the world, rendering in his energetic style such far away places as China, Burma, Egypt, and Arabia.

Southwest Indian art

The work of three noted Southwest Indian artists will be on exhibition through July 30 at the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History. They are Raymond Naha, Hopi painter; Beatie Yazz, Navaho painter; and Henry Shelton, kachina doll maker.

Raymond Naha, a Hopi Indian, was a first award winner at the 1966 American Indian Artists Exhibition held at the Philbrook Art Center. His grandmothers were both famous Hopi painters.

Beatie Yazz is a Navajo painter, who records the panorama of the desert and Navajo life. He illustrated Alberta Hanum's books "Spin a Silver Dollar" and "Paint the Wind," which are about the artist.

Henry Shelton, a Hopi Indian kachina doll maker, is employed by the Museum of Northern Arizona, Flagstaff. He has won many first place awards for his kachina carvings.

Valley Scenes at Tantamount

Margaret Ziegler is the artist-of-the-month at the Tantamount Theatre with a one-man show of her Carmel Valley landscapes in the Green Room Gallery.

Familiar hills and recognizable river scenes painted in oil and watercolor with the authority of years of study will be on view for the month of July.

Margaret Ziegler and her husband Jim, whose photographs with a Western flavor have adorned many an issue of The Outlook, discovered Carmel Valley in 1956.

A native of Cincinnati, Ohio, she studied at its institute of fine arts, continuing her studies in Japan where she married. Her later studies include years in Minneapolis, Ann Arbor, and at Oakland's School of Arts and Crafts.

She is an exhibiting member of the Carmel Artists' Association.

Art show to benefit CVYO

A driveway Art Festival and Fashion Show with original batik fashions will be held to benefit the CVYO on Saturday and Sunday, July 15-16.

Admission is free to the festival, located at the home of batik artist Harry Conley, at 7 Marquard Rd.

Over 20 local artists will be represented including Jeanne Fosnot, Margaret Ziegler, Fred and Mrs. Pomeroy, Marlinde von Ruhs, Jim Fosnot, Bobbie Johnson, Denis Wagner, Eve Tartar Brown and Harry Conley, all of Carmel Valley.

Folk singer Caryn Ecker will entertain along with Judy Wendel, strolling violinist, who will be giving a concert at Carnegie Hall this fall.

A drawing for paintings and other art works will be held on Sunday afternoon with donations of $1 which will benefit the CVYO. Winners need not be present to win.

CARYN ECKER models original batik print dress, one of those being shown along with batik bikinis at the Driveway Art Festival on July 15-16.

THE CERAMIC LAMP fashioned by Jim is a contemporary foil for some of his original jugs and vases. Done on the pottery wheel, the cylindrical lamp is both practical and aesthetically interesting with holes cut to release the light.

Jim Fosnot works in many art forms

A young man with many talents and interests going for him is Jim Fosnot. Sculpture, ceramics, fireplaces, and most recently kinetic sculpture are a few of the art forms in which Jim works. (Examples of his kinetic sculpture which embodies both light and motion will be exhibited at forthcoming Driveway Art Festival on July 15-16 at the Harry Conley residence on Marquard Road.

Jim is the son of Jeanne and Glen Fosnot. She is an accomplished artist, he is an administrator in the Monterey School District.

Jim was born in Omaha and went to University of Nebraska for one year before coming to California. When he arrived at San Jose State he did a complete switch from chemistry to a fine arts major. He moved to the Valley in 1964 after receiving his B.A. in art from San Jose. Since then he has been doing graduate work toward his master's degree.

The kinetic sculpture that Jim is now spending most of his time creating is a difficult thing to photograph since it is light and motion, rather than static form. It differs from traditional sculpture in that kinetic sculpture "bombards the viewer with visual sensations. It is sculpture purely for the experience," according to Jim. He uses changing lights and moving objects to create the whole, and the eye of the viewer is constantly stimulated.

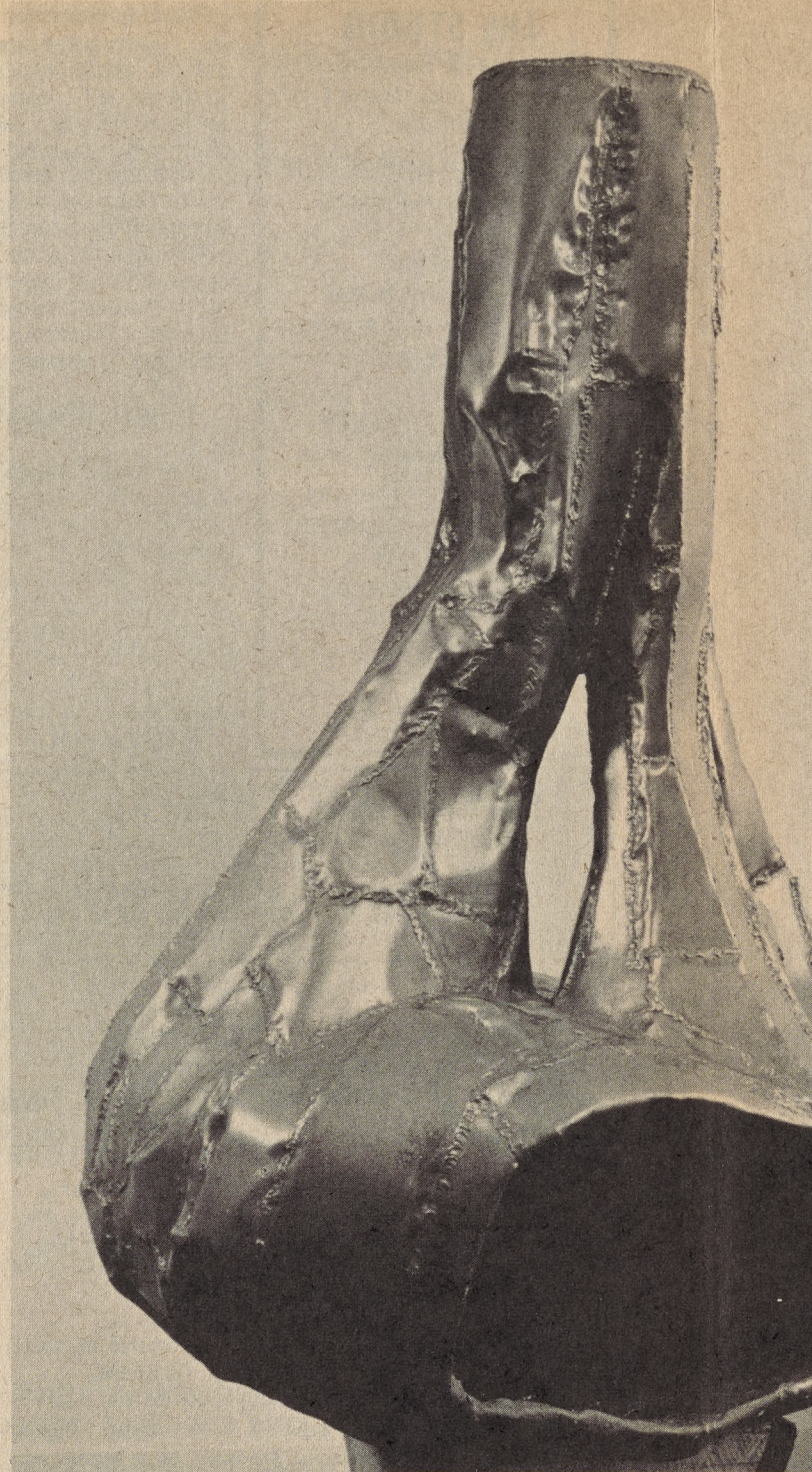

In the more traditional form of sculpture Jim has taken first place awards in steel sculpture at the Monterey County Fair and the Jazz Festival exhibits.

A young man with tremendous imagination coupled with training and talent, Jim continually experiments with contemporary art forms. They are definitely not the traditional but definitely challenging to the eye of the viewer.

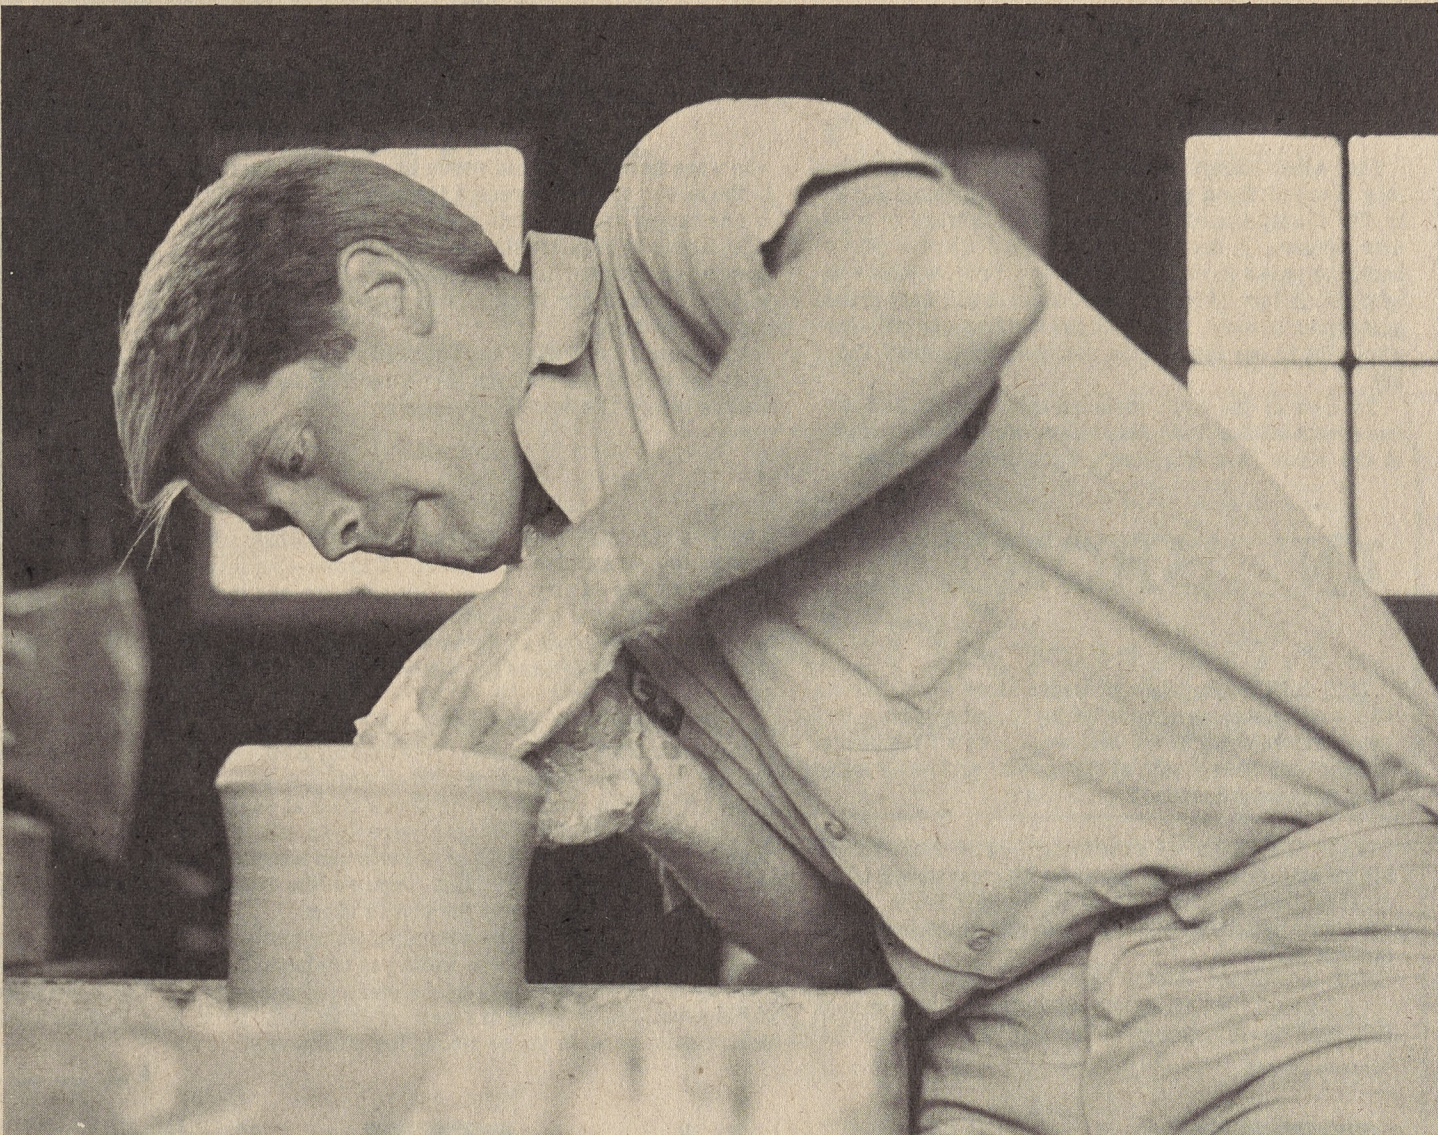

SCULPTURED FIGURE of a woman dressing was carved of plaster, with a patina finish, by Jim when he was a student at San Jose State. The plaster is set on a wire armature before carving as you would in stone. This particular piece won awards at the college exhibit.

AT LEFT—WELDED FIRE PLACES have become a specialty of Jim Fosnot's. At San Jose State College he worked on a program of special studies with an instructor in fireplace design. The free standing or hanging fireplaces are made of many small pieces of steel. His future plans call for trying some out of cast aluminum.

ABOVE—WHEN CONSTRUCTING the fireplace, Jim cut out hundreds of small, irregularly shaped pieces of steel and welded them into a free form shape. The entire effect is completed by using stove blacking and polishing giving the desired texture and glow.

Flood control plans are up to the Valley

The Army Corps of Engineers has presented its long awaited flood plain report on the Carmel River to the county Board of Supervisors. Contrary to popular opinion, it does not suggest that Carmel River banks be paved in cement nor does it propose dams to be built. In fact, it offers no solutions at all; only gives past river history, maps and predictions and puts the whole bit in our laps...the residents of Carmel Valley.

To look at the maps included in the report and see the extent of the 1958 flood along the 16-mile length of the river is a frightening reminder to those of us who were here and should serve as a graphic warning to those who are more recent inhabitants.

The report recommends specific zoning in the flood plain areas to regulate the use and save future homeowners or resorts from devastation. Because there will be another big flood...sometime...and no one can predict when.

It behooves the Valley and the county to work together to try to find the solution for controlling the raging waters before the next one is upon us.

CARMEL'S HOLIDAY INN officially opened last week in grand style. Kemmons Wilson, chairman of the board of the huge hotel chain and Hugh Chatham who heads the franchise company, Carmel-Chatmar, showed off the luxury of the surroundings and their bill of fare to local hotel and business people at a gala party on Friday. Judging by this sampling of its hospitality, the new Holiday Inn will go far on the Peninsula.

THE DRAMATIC BANNERS that did so much to add color and festive atmosphere to the thoroughly delightful Big Sur Folk Festival last week were the work of batik artist John Horler who is also a cook at Big Sur Hot Springs. His bold designs were dyed into huge seamless squares and oblongs of cloth and attached to tall poles that held them taut against the breeze. Light shining through made the colors glow.

Just as colorful were the costumes worn by the folk musicians and their audience. Lovely as medieval damsels were the young women performers in their simple flowing gowns. Long dresses cut from India print bedspreads were in vogue among the spectators.

PERSPECTIVE

Flood plain report meeting on July 10

An open meeting will be held on Monday, July 10, 8 p.m., at the Carmel Valley Community Center so that residents may get more information and ask questions about the U.S. Army Engineers Flood Plain report.

There will be representatives from the Engineers, the State Department of Water Resources and the County Engineering Department present.

Because of the magnitude of the problem and the depth of the report, all Valleyites are urged to attend the meeting. The report does not suggest solutions to the flood problem. Action on this must come from the county and local residents; therefore, a thorough knowledge of the problem is vitally important.

Summaries of the formal report, which is 36 pages long plus numerous pictures and maps, will be made available to those who attend the meeting.

The Rhyming Philosopher

To you who now defend our honored name
And staunchly turn aside oppression's threat,
We bring a nation's greetings and acclaim,
Acknowledging with gratitude our debt.
You fight for freedom on a foreign shore
That never shall the homeland bear the blast
Or tremor of a marching conqueror,
Nor bend the knee as children stand aghast.
Thus be assured despite dissenters' yelp,
Americans revere your valiant deed
And pray each hour for God's almighty help
That His eternal truth shall intercede.
Child of our blood, son of this freeborn land,
We also serve who love and understand.

This Independence Day let faith have voice
That all unite to ban the tyrant's sway,
So someday ev'ry nation shall rejoice
The final blow which brought war's holiday.
To live in lasting peace and brotherhood:
This all men now would welcome if they could.

Army Engineers' flood plain report cites Carmel River hazards

The Flood Plain Report prepared by the U.S. Army Engineers Corps was presented to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors at its last meeting. Following are excerpts from that report:

The objective of this flood plain report is to provide the people of Monterey County with a compilation of flood data, and an analysis of the river's flooding potentials, which may be used as an aid in planning the prudent use of properties located within or near to the flood plain of the Carmel River. It is intended also that this report assist representatives of State and local governments, private land owners, and individual citizens concerned with property developments within these flood plain limits, in planning measures whereby future flood damages and hazards to life and property will be held to a minimum.

The study presented treats only the flood hazard encountered on the 16-mile reach of the main stem of the Carmel River as it extends from the confluence of Tularcitos Creek near Camp Stephani to the mouth at its juncture with the Pacific Ocean. The flood plain includes portions of the communities of Robles del Rio, Carmel Valley and a section of the City of Carmel.

Attention is directed to the fact that neither does the scope of the investigation nor the extent of this report include plans for flood protective works, or for the direct solution of flood problems created by the Carmel River. Rather, it is intended to provide here-with the bases for further study and planning on the part of local interests in arriving at solutions to minimize vulnerability to flood damages.

DEVELOPMENTS IN THE FLOOD PLAIN

The Carmel River Valley has been experiencing rapid residential, retirement community and commercial development, parallel to the growth rate experienced by the State of California in recent years. Extensive areas of recently constructed residential and retirement community subdivisions, as well as some important public utilities are subject to periodic flooding. Other developments now in the advanced design or construction phase will be located on the flood plain. In the past, most of the land in Carmel Valley was utilized for moderate to highly productive agricultural uses. Flood damages were limited to relatively infrequent crop losses. However, with urban development monetary losses to individuals, businesses, and public property from flood overflow and poor drainage have greatly increased. With further development suc-

MISSION FIELDS

The Mission Fields subdivision on the right bank downstream from California State Highway No. 1 bridge, and within the city limits of Carmel, parts of the communities of Carmel Valley and numerous planned and existing subdivisions on the flood plain between these two locations are subject to flooding. Location of the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club may be considered to represent a rational utilization of flood plain land; however, the adjacent site of some rapidly expanding residential development is in a critical location, should an extraordinary, but statistically probable, large flood occur.

sive flood losses will multiply. The approximate limits inundated in the flood of 1958 are shown on the photographic maps. Since the greater portion of the Carmel River flood plain has not yet been developed, steps should be taken toward zoning or construction of flood-control works to prevent proliferation of damages from future floods that may be expected to occur.

The sewage treatment plant for the City of Carmel is located on the flood plain at an elevation prone to relatively frequent flooding. Past floods have interfered with proper operation, and though damages were mostly of a maintenance nuisance nature, the flood situation could cause serious health hazards in the Carmel River Beach State Park, located downstream at the mouth of the river. Though the location of the installation is deemed compatible with rational use of flood plain land, the present flood situation represents a severe deterrent to possible future developments downstream, due to the health hazards in times of even minor flooding.

OBSTRUCTION TO FLOOD FLOWS

Bridges with insufficient clearance over the stream may collect debris during times of high water. Such a condition represents a serious hazard to the structure and may not only result in destruction of the bridge and cutting of a transportation link, but also may aggravate local flooding upstream, due to obstruction of flow in the channel.

There are a number of sharp bends in the river and as previously stated there is ample evidence of instability in the regime of the river.

It should be recognized that seemingly inconsequential alterations and excavations in the bed and banks of the stream may drastically affect bank erosion downstream.

Trash and heavy growths of willows and other vegetation constrict the channel in many places, and when such obstructions are allowed to remain, they serve as a trap for deposition of gravel bars, which further reduce the channel capacity.

Irwin Twining Johnson VII was surrounded by well-wishers Sunday when he was awarded his PhD at Stanford. Among them were his wife, Jo Anne, their three children, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. I.T. Johnson of El Nido Way. "Johnny," who began his education at the Bayview School at Anderson Creek and attended Peninsula schools, received his A.B. at Stanford in journalism where he was a member of the Quill and Scroll. Obtaining a master's degree in education at San Jose State, he has been teaching at Irvington until returning to Stanford on a teaching fellowship.

An article by Dr. Johnson dealing with "The Use of Federal Funds in State Education" appears in the June issue of Phi Delta Kappa magazine, on invitation. He plans to remain on campus during the summer to complete special work as assistant director of school board studies. Saturday night, the Valley Johnsons entertained with a dinner party at the Palo Alto Hills Country Club for Johnny, Jo Anne, and the many friends and relatives there to attend the graduation ceremony the following day.

Alice, who was in Chicago to attend the 100th anniversary of Pi Beta Phi, the oldest women's sorority, flew out on Saturday for the festivities. She returned to complete the final details of relinquishing her offices as national president of the Pi Phis and is expected home this weekend.

Douglas Radford had a happy reminder of his love of yachting Tuesday night when the birthday cake presented to him resembled a ship in full sail. The hull, a delicate sea foam green, and the sails of billowing white frosting, was the confection served following the dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. John Dryden at their home on Miramonte Road. In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Radford, those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Todd, and Mr. Fred Merrill.

David Partridge and Jeff Hudson were in first place at the end of the duplicate bridge tournament Tuesday evening at the Community Center for the Valley Bridge Club. Ernest Gravelle and his partner, John Van Laanen, were in second place with Al Friedenthal and Maurice Stoney in third place.

Beth and Bill Walker of Lilac Lane enjoyed a visit last weekend from Martha Rosenquist, a former Valley resident, who now makes Coronado her home while her husband, Don, serves aboard the USS Constellation in Vietnam. The couple made many friends during their three-year stay in the Valley while Cmdr. Rosenquist attended classes at the Naval Postgraduate School.

A Valleyite, Gordon Yates, who is secretary and director of human relations for the McCormick and Co. Shilling Division in Salinas, was one of the seven industrial leaders who served as featured speakers Friday at the 17th annual Monterey County Industrial Development's installation dinner held at the Mark Thomas Inn.

The Carmel Valley Parent Nursery School held its annual potluck dinner at the Paso Mediano home of Milton and Audrey Klikovac. Those sharing the final social gathering were Messrs. and Mmes. John Anderson, Henry Blatnik, Stan Cloud, Calvin Garner, David Erskine, Kirk Gayman, Al Graham, Tom Henderson, Robert C. Jones, Dick Kern, Bob Kynch, John Lake, Bill Mintzer, Paul Naton, Roger Winslow, Bill Broderick, Vic Harber, Don Johnson and Mrs. Larry Gardner.

There is a new name in lights on the marquee of the Michael Riordan home on River Road, which reads "Krista Michelle Riordan," who made her premiere May 27 at the Community Hospital. She weighed 6 pounds 13 ounces. Other members of the cast included an almost two-year-old sister, Erin; paternal grandparents Mr. and Mrs. John Riordan of Millbrae; Mr. Walter Cavanaugh, maternal grandfather of Pleasant Hill; Mrs. Lillian Cavanaugh of Oakland, and eight adoring aunts and uncles. Her father, a member of the White Oaks company, is currently appearing in "Goldilocks" and opens next week as the lead in "110 in the Shade." Mrs. Cavanaugh has returned to her Bay Area home after assisting a week with the new arrival.

A speedy recovery to Mrs. Lowrie W. Mervine of W. Garzas Road, who is a patient at Fort Ord Hospital. Mrs. Mervine is recovering from injuries sustained in a fall from her horse. The Valleyite is a fifth grade teacher at Tularcitos School and heads the science department.

A "graduation" picnic for the toddlers leaving the Carmel Valley Parent Nursery School and going into kindergarten next fall was held last week at the Boronda Road home of Mrs. Kirk Gayman. There was a hot dog roast and fun for all on this, their last day of nursery school.

Attending were Rodney Anderson, Kelly Blatnik, Mary Beth Erskine, Lisa Gardner, Pam Gayman, Alan Henderson, Katie Kern, Sandra Klikovac, Richard Mintzer, Ross Naton, and Patrick Broderick.

A June bride who said her vows at the Carmel Valley Community Chapel to become Mrs. Herbert George Meyer, was Phyllis Frates Dinneen, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Carmel Frates of Sausalito. The groom is the son of Mrs. George Henry Meyer of San Francisco and the late Mr. Meyer. For the ceremony attended by their immediate families, the bride chose a white and yellow lace tent dress. Her bridesmaid, Miss Sharon Hager of Berkeley, wore a gown of mint green lace.

Other attendants included Robert G. Meyer, who served as best man for his father; Stephen H. Meyer, another son, who ushered; the bridegroom's daughter, Susanne Meyer, who was flower girl, and the bride's son, Robert, who was ring bearer.

The bride until recently was a secondary teacher. They met while attending the University of California. A reunion took place last year at an alumni party.

They will make their home in Gonzales where Mr. Meyer is manager of the Herold Ranches, one of the principals of the California Coastal Farms.

Filling in for county librarian, Mrs. Louva Huntington at the Tuesday Story Hour for preschoolers at the Village Library was Mrs. S.N. (Dorothy) Trevino. The morning sessions conducted each Tuesday during the last three months are now at an end for the summer months, but will begin again in September.

The Boronda Road home of Mr. and Mrs. Harwell Dyer has been a busy place with the arrivals and departures of summer house guests. Mr. Dyer's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dyer of Sedona, Ariz., stopped last week enroute to Expo '67 in Montreal. The Valley Dyers are themselves leaving soon to attend the exposition, followed by their annual family reunion which is held near Jasper at Lake Edith.

Currently visiting is their nephew, John Martin, who is a science teacher in Edmonton, Alberta. House-sitting during their absence will be their daughter, Maureen, on vacation from San Francisco State College where she is working toward her master's degree.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Viljeon of Rancho Road entertained Mr. and Mrs. Gene Perkins and two small daughters last week who were visitors from Paradise, Calif.

John Charles Koon writes Oriental cookbook, reveals all about birds nest soup

John Charles Koon, of Flight Road, is not only quite a cook, but he is in the process of writing a cookbook on Oriental dishes. Having spent 17 years in the Orient as a military advisor, he spent a great deal of time delving into the history of Chinese cookery.

The background on why the Chinese eat some of the unusual things they do, comes as a natural prerequisite to his recipes for authentic and mock birds nest soup.

In China, poverty drove people to search out everything they could eat that would assuage their hunger. There is no animal or vegetable of the land, air or sea that has not been popped into a Chinese pot, according to John.

It was in this way that they discovered that the lips of otherwise inedible fish and the fins of sharks were delicious; that there was nourishment in fungus and that in the back of a locust there is a tiny, but delicious bit of white meat.

John continued to say that what poverty discovered, wealth has improved. He feels cooking cannot be perfected into an art without these two incentives.

Having invented chopsticks and porcelain bowls, the Chinese are content to devote their time to the exploration of food and believe that a hearty appetite is the natural state of man.

The sea swallow has been talked of for generations in many lands, not because of the delicacy of its flesh and the beauty of its song, but because of its nest. Centuries ago, the Chinese found this bird off the southern coast. Its habitat also includes Vietnam, the Philippines and India. (There are only four species which produce edible nests, and they should not be confused with our migratory swallows.)

The sea swallow nests are made of seaweed and certain types of grass which grow along the coast line. They are semi-oval in shape, about the size of a large golf ball. The nests are glued together with salivary secretions from the swallow and range in color from pale to red, depending on the nature and mineral content of the rock walls where they hang.

The swallow nests are found on rocky islands and it is extremely difficult to collect them. Often they are collected by boat, with one man guiding the craft and the other standing up with a long pole which hooks the nests out of crevasses in the wall. Often they must climb cliffs and gather them from caves.

The value of the nests depends on the color and purity. The white may cost as much as $50 per pound. It takes 40 to 50 nests to make a pound, according to John. They may be purchased here in Oriental food stores, whole, flaked or canned. When cooked they are almost transparent.

The following recipe was given to John by the chef of the Golden Dragon Room of the Grand Hotel in Taipei, Taiwan (Formosa).

BIRDS NEST SOUP

4 whole birds nests 6 cups of water
1/4 lb. cooked ham salt to taste
1 1/2 lbs. chicken (do not bone)

Cover birds nests with water and soak overnight, drain, cover again with water and cook for 45 minutes. Drain again and add cold water to cool the nests.

Take nests in hand and squeeze out the excess water, remove any foreign matter remaining and set aside.

Chop ham fine.

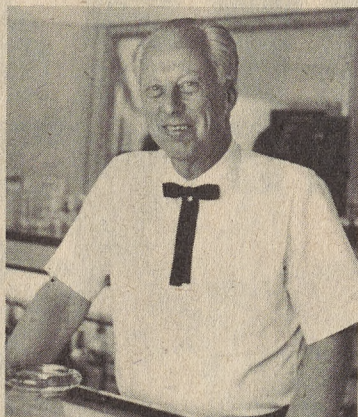

Cover chicken with 6 cups of water, add salt and bring to a boil, reduce heat and cook slowly for 1 hour. Now add nests and simmer for an additional 2 hours.

Remove meat from bones and chop fine. Add chicken and ham to soup and serve. Serves 4.

An old Chinese proverb says, To serve a meal without soup is

MOCK BIRDS NEST SOUP

5 ozs. long rice 5 cups chicken broth
1/2 cup cooked ham, chopped 1/2 cup water chestnuts, chopped
1 cup cooked chicken, chopped salt to taste
1/2 teas. soya sauce (optional)

Soak long rice in cold water 1/2 hour, drain, then cut into 6 inch lengths. Bring broth to a boil, add long rice to broth with salt (add boiling water to maintain the amount of soup desired). Now add chicken, ham, and water chestnuts, simmer for 10 minutes and serve. Chopped green onions may be added just before serving. Serves 4.

That Wonderful Not-too-big Ranch House

With Room for All your Hobbies

It's the attractive low, white rustic home on a knoll in the sun-shine of Carmel Valley near Rancho del Monte (use THEIR swimming pool) and facing Garzas Canyon and that inspiring mountain view.

Rough exposed wood interior, large carpeted living-dining room with fireplace across one end. Two big bedrooms, each with bath, and all carpeted. Interesting natural wood millwork in the kitchen, with all appliances and two chopping blocks for the gourmet cook. Excellent storage throughout the house.

And here are the bonus rooms: A family room 20x23 ft.; a workshop, all paneled, 20x16 ft. Even a service room 15 ft. long. There are about 2200 square feet of comfortable, convenient living in this 4 year old home, and easy-care, fenced patio areas for your relaxed hours in the sun.

The owners are moving to New York and you could move in al-most immediately. This house has so much to offer for the good life, and the price is only $46,500. Such a pleasure to show you!

PRISCILLA RAYNES

Word has reached The Outlook of the sudden death of Priscilla Raynes, who lived in the Valley until two years ago. Priscilla, her husband Jim, and children, Suzie and Michael, moved to Forest Knolls from their home on Toyon Way, when Jim became professor of economics at College of the Marin.

The daughter of Lord and Lady McMichael of England, Priscilla had a sharp wit which she used in a column written for The Outlook several years ago under the pseudonym "El Gallo Ruidoso."

Red Sox take CV Little League championship, all stars named

The first-half champion Red Sox won the second-half title Thursday by edging the Volunteers 11-9 in a hotly contested game. The Red Sox came from behind twice for the victory which cinched the title.

The Red Sox exploded with six runs in their half of the fifth, sparked by Bob Poulos' double, Mike Feeney's single, and clinched by Ted Hall's first homer of the season with two on. Mike Feeney, with four home runs to his credit, is the only other player who has homered in Casey Park. Steve Hohler of the Volunteers had a triple.

Totals: Volunteers 9 runs, 6 hits, no errors; Red Sox 11 runs, 9 hits, 4 errors. WP Mike Feeney, LP Rick Olmsted, HR Ted Hall (RS).

Saturday the Red Sox dropped a thriller to the Tigers 11-10. The Tigers may be low in the totem pole of team standings, but they are the only team which can cope with the champions. They have beaten them three times, the only games the Red Sox have lost this season.

In the top of the sixth, Ted Hall hit a home run with one on to tie the score. It was his second homer in three days and of the season. But in the bottom of the sixth, Larry Scholink opened with a double and Rod Deas singled him home to win the game. Totals: Red Sox 10-9-1; Tigers 11-4-4. WP Jason Johnson, LP Ted Hall, HR Ted Hall (RS).

In Saturday's game, the Volunteers bested the Giants 10-6 to take second place in the second half race. Rick Olmsted hit two-for-two and Steve Hohler, two-for-three. Giant Mike Groves enjoyed a perfect day at bat with three doubles. Each pitcher allowed seven hits and fanned nine batters. Totals: Giants 6-7-4; Volunteers 10-7-1. WP Tom Ocampo, LP Manny Mancebo.

In Tuesday's game, the Giants outlasted the Tigers 10-8 in a wild and wooly game. The Giants led 5-1 at the halfway mark. In the top of the fourth, the Tigers exploded with seven runs on four hits and two errors. But the Giants came back with four runs on two hits and one error to tie up the game.

Pitcher Mike Groves singled home Keith Baxter in the fifth inning to win the game. Except for the fourth inning, Mike Groves pitched one-hit ball. Totals: Tigers 8-5-5; Giants 10-7-4. WP Mike Groves, LP Tom Salyers.

"The Volvo 1800 S is a very civilized touring car for people who want to travel rapidly in style, a Gran Turismo car of the type much in the news these days, but at a price that many people who cannot afford a Ferrari or Aston Martin will be able to pay."

Ferraris and Aston Martins cost over $10,000. The Volvo 1800 S costs only $4175* and you can drive one home today.
